

Cumulative impacts

Threats don't exist in isolation from each other. Most ecosystems are being put under increased pressure from a variety of threats. These threats accumulate and multiply, making it increasingly difficult for species to adapt. Tuangi, New Zealand cockles, face many threats:

Department of Conservation
Te Papa Atawhai